

look at	to study (something) visually; to observe or watch (something) look for	to search for something that one doesn't have yet buy	to obtain (something) in exchange for money or goods pay	to give money in exchange for goods or services spend	to consume by giving away money in exchange for service or goods spend money on waste	to squander money or resources uselessly help	to provide assistance to (someone or something); to contribute in some way to want	to wish for or desire something that one doesn't have yet like	to be pleased by someone or something; to prefer and maintain an action as a regular habit or activity would like
list	a register or roll of paper consisting of an enumeration or compilation of a set of possible items shopping list	a piece of paper which lists the things one needs to buy choose	to pick something from a wider range of possibilities

Exercise

